I. INTRODUCTION

Sophisticated modern technology was created by humans to facilitate work and access all information. All around the world, people can easily access various kinds of information. Although separated by distance and space, using sophisticated technology, humans are able to interact with other humans. Cellular phones that originally could only be used for telephone calls and texting, can now be used for photos, browsing or accessing the internet. The sophistication of communication technology is now used by humans to fulfill various kinds of need. Even human biological needs can be fulfilled by using cellular phones. Cellular telephone is a technology that functions as a communication tool connect humans with other humans who are separated by distance, but still effectively able to communicate or interact directly. Sexual activity via cellular phones has now mushroomed in the community. And sex activities conducted via mobile phones, are called phone sex.

Phone sex is a type of virtual sex that refers to sexually explicit conversations made between two or more people over the telephone, especially if one participant or partner is sex, masturbates or performs sexual fantasies. It can be said that each pair of phone sex actually do anal sex or can also be called oral sex. Participants do not have sex directly, but through verbal stimulation in the form of sighs heard from cellular phones that are able to arouse one's biological desires. When the desire to have sex triggered on the phone, they imagine having sex directly. The voices played by a couple were made as if they were having an intimate relationship, even though they only had oral sex. The use of Phone sex is now no longer in its function. If used correctly, phone sex is actually very useful for couples who cannot meet directly because of their work, and phone sex can be used as an alternative to release the libido. Some have never even seen each other's faces and never meet directly before with their phone sex partners. To find a phone sex pair is not difficult, one way we can see the development of technology, such as on social media or cyberspace (Facebook, Twitter and Instagram accounts).

The term "behavior" denotes an act or activity of a human being which covers a very broad range, among others: walking, talking, crying, laughing, working, lecturing, writing, reading, and so on. From this description it can be concluded that what is meant by human behavior is actually all human activities or activities, both those observed directly, and those that cannot be observed by outsiders (Notoatmodjo, 2003). According to Skinner, as quoted by Notoatmodjo (2003), formulating given behavior is the response or reaction of a person to stimuli or external stimuli. Because this behavior occurs through the process of stimulus to the organism, and then the organism responds, Skinner's theory is called the "SOR" theory or Stimulus - Organism - Response Judging from the form of the response to this stimulus, the behavior can be divided into two (Notoatmodjo, 2003), Closed behavior (covert behavior) is a person's response to a stimulus in the form of a veiled or closed (covert), and second open behavior (overt behavior). a person's response to a stimulus in the form of a real or open action. The response to the stimulus is clearly in the form of action or practice, which can easily be observed, or seen by others.

Almost all people use unlimited technology in various life activities. Surfing in the world of social media becomes a daily activity of the community. Meanwhile the phone sex is very close to internet browsing activities. so it is not difficult at this time to see phone sex activities carried out by netters in every city in Indonesia in personal accounts, obtained by actors such as BBM pins, and chatting on Facebook, including Padang City.

As a result of the development of times and technological advances which have resulted in the emergence of various problems, especially activities that occur on social media, one of which is phone sex. Phone sex is a method of making long-distance contact through social media, such as by phone, the internet and video call. The technology is very instrumentally active and has become a necessity in society, therefore technology is very influential in our lives. The more technology develops, the more potential problems may occur in the community.

Phone sex in Padang City is a phenomenon that arises from the development of social media in this city. Interestingly, phone sex is also practiced by students in the city of Padang. Based on interviews obtained by actors with initials AM originating from UNP students, AM is a student who is attracted to love limited by distance, because with lack of desire for satisfaction if he wants to satisfy his desire for desire, there AM is acquainted with phone sex. After getting to know this, AM is actually functionally addicted and creates it additional activities that entice him to look for night-time casual sex.

Furthermore, interviews were conducted with a STKIP-PGRI student, with the initials FE, In an interview with FE, he said the phone sex activity was obtained through the internet, the page on Facebook being 'Auntie Aunt Girang' there he could get the cellphone numbers of the naughty women, and in it there are steps or conditions that must be done. This activity is usually done by FE at night, and about the time spent all depends on the topic of the conversation, which can last up to 1-2 hours. Since getting to know this, the lifestyles lived by FE is somewhat disturbed, in addition to the negative effects that lead to a chaotic lifestyle in everyday activities due to frequent staying up and spending a lot of time wandering around at night to entertain themselves.

The account from the informant with the initials YF also came a group of UNP students. YF often engages in phone sex, originally obtained through Blackberry pins from friends, YF often calls girls who want to do phone sex on condition that they have to fill in the credit first, the number of girls who will be invited to do phone sex. With this happening the development of desire escalates for more in terms of lust, and informants began to wrestle into the night-time activity environment as a place for informants to have fun.

Likewise, the information conveyed by the informant with the initials RDA (an ITP Student), AL said that beforehand they were just fad after hearing from their friends' stories about phone sex that was easy to do through the services on Facebook, which they had previously not believed in, then RDA is fad want to try to prove it. Without them knowing it, it actually makes them addicted if there is no work, he added.

Furthermore, interviews obtained from the informant with the initials AL (UNES Students), AL said he originally the hobby of playing online games in internet cafes and when boredom began to set in he was often fad checking porn sites and until finally finding ways to satisfy his sexual needs -through phone sex, and it was all seen from certain Facebook sites, after that getting a fuel pin, mobile number until finally to the desired stage, through the AL's agreement with the phone sex actor himself, as with the terms have to top up credit for one of them. Sometimes if the does not feel satisfied, AL does not hesitate to go directly to the real world to fulfill his passions. Without realizing it, what made AL fall into the activities of the night world, was in order to find his passions.

Therefore, researchers assume that the emergence of phone sex activities carried out by students, will have certain consequences in their lives to come, both in education and in the emergence of additional activities where they enter into the nightlife or everyday life.

The research will be focused on phone sex phenomena that occur in students in the city of Padang. Before, sex was understood as an intimate relationship between a husband and wife in the same place and with physical contact. Over time with technological development phone sex activity arises where people can enjoy sexual relations without having to touch, meet and without bonding. Therefore, researchers assume that phone sex triggers consequences that impact on the lives of phone sex users, both in terms of the emergence of additional activities at night, or on patterns of general social behavior in their lives. Based on this statement, the research question arises: what are the real-life consequences of phone sex for the behavior of phone sex participants in Padang City?

In this study, researchers also found that phone sex was also carried out by unmarried students. Therefore, researchers assume that phone sex triggers the consequences that occur in the lives of phone sex perpetrators, both in terms of the emergence of additional activities at night or on patterns of social behavior in their lives.

The theory used here in analyzing the consequences of phone sex in the behavior of phone sex participants draws on the social action theory of Talcott Parsons. This theory was strongly influenced by the thoughts of previous sociologists, such as Alfred Marshall, Vilfredo Pareto, Emile Durkheim, and Max Weber as outlined in his work The Structure of Social Action (1937). The point of the argument is that the four theoretic figures finally arrived at a meeting point with the basic elements for a voluntaristic theory of social action, even though they differed in their starting point. In the analysis, Parsons uses the means framework, (means-ends framework) which essentially holds that:

1. The action is directed at the goal or has a purpose.
2. An action occurs in a situation, where some elements are certain, while other elements are used by those who act as a tool to achieve that goal.
3. Normatively the action is regulated in connection with the determination of the tool and purpose.

In a sense then the action is seen as the smallest and most fundamental unit of social reality. The basic elements of an action are goals, tools, conditions and norms. Tools and conditions are different, people who act are able to use tools in their efforts to achieve goals, while conditions are aspects of the situation that can be controlled by the person acting.

In addition, Parsons develops "pattern variables" as suggestions for categorizing actions or classifying role types in the social system. These five schemes are seen as the main theoretical framework in social system analysis. The five pattern variables are:

1. Affective versus affective neutrality. In a social relationship people can act without the affective element (affective neutrality)
2. Self-orientation versus collective-orientation. In relationships that are oriented only to people pursuing personal interests (self-orientation), while in a collectively oriented relationship, these interests have been dominated by the group (collective-orientation)
3. Universalism versus particularism. In a universalistic relationship, principals are interconnected according to criteria that can be applied to all people being in a particularistic relationship used certain measures.
4. Quality versus quality performance variables, refer to "ascribed status" or membership in birth-based groups. In relation to performance this means that the relationship is based on achievement (achievement) or what other people achieve.
5. Specificity versus diffuseness. In a specific relationship, people with other people relate to a limited or segmented situation. While the diffuseness of a person relates evenly, where all members are involved in the interaction process.

Looking at phone sex behavior among students, as Parsons expressed through the means- ends framework, and also the explanation expressed by Parsons through which variable implications are related to the problem of this research is how an action is carried out by phone sex participants where in each of these actions they can determine the goals and objectives to be achieved, namely a form of action that they use to meet their sexual satisfaction through the use of social networks, namely by using the services that exist in each social media in the form of Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter as alternative paths for the realization of the desire they want to achieve. Then it also did not escape the emergence of a condition in which the emergence of other activities from the participants to plunge into the world of the night in search of a place for the fulfillment of his passions, of course it did not escape the network they obtained as long as the participant-entered the night world itself. With this in mind, they get additional information from their friends in the night world in knowing various kinds of things such as places, acquaintances of women to be used as partners or to achieve other goals of phone sex practitioners.

A. Consequences

A consequence is the impact or effect, impact or influence that occurs (whether negative or positive) from an action taken by an individual or a group of people who carry out certain activities. In our daily lives, the term "impact" is a word that is commonly used in the wider community and is almost familiar at all levels of age. The use of the word impact is usually accompanied by the final impact on people, things, situations, systems and so on.

B. Phone Sex

Phone sex is a sexual activity carried out by listening through a cellular telephone. In the context of phone sex, someone when calling a partner tends to use more intimate discussion and fall into sexuality. Sexual activity through cellular telephones is conducted by a couple when having a conversation with soft and smooth voices, with a sighing tone and a tempting impression to the other partner. Phone sex is actually very useful for couples who have long-distance relationships because of their work assignments. This can also prevent infidelity between couples who are far apart. In reality phones have been widely used by the wider community, including pre-marital teenagers.

1) YF

II. METHODS

The location to be studied is Padang City. Researchers chose this location because researchers saw that the phone sex had been widely known by the public, especially among teenagers in Padang through social media. Therefore, the researchers felt interested and challenged to examine the consequences of the behavior of students using phone sex in Padang City.

In this study, researchers used qualitative research methods., Phone sex behavior as a form of impact of changes in social networking technology in the middle of the city of Padang. Seeing and understanding this behavior, researchers try to put forward a research procedure that produces descriptive data in the form of written and oral testimony from the people as observed actors. The type of research that researchers use in uncovering the phone sex phenomenon is a case study. The selection of informants in this study was done by snowball sampling. This study uses primary data, data collection methodology used in this is through observation and interviews. To get the validity of the data obtained from the field, this study using data tirangulasi techniques namely Source triangulation, method triangulation and time triangulation.

The type of data analysis used in this study is by adopting that developed by Miles and Huberman through an analysis consisting of three activities flow, (1) reduction, (2) data presentation, and (3) conclusion / verification.

III. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Technological developments bring changes to various aspects of people's lives. Technology provides alternatives that make it easy for users to meet their needs. Before the development of technology with the existence of social networking services, sex was generally known and known through stories from other people, reading books, porn magazines and pornographic films.

The presence of social networks opens up opportunities for anyone to be able to get information about sex. Many sites provide download services for porn films, sex portals that contain sex stories. One internet service for sex information is a social networking application that is used by its users to engage in phone sex. Based on the results of the research the researchers will describe the findings about the consequences of phone sex in the behavior of phone sex users in Padang City. The consequences that exist in the behavior of phone sex students are (A) Triggering in the activities of actors in the right world. (B) The impact that occur to the social environment, including (1) close friends, and (2) have a the development of a network of friends, fellow connoisseurs of night life.

Impacts that arise after getting to know the phone sex are very influential for the users, especially the various activities carried out by the perpetrators in filling the empty time when lust is high and willing to let go of the participants no longer hesitate to seek to share places to be their lusters. Various ways are carried out by the actors to be able to achieve their satisfaction in order to realize their lust by visiting various nightlife venues that provide services such as being accompanied by night ladies at karaoke places in the Pondok area and also visiting clubbing provided such as Juliet, Axana hotel, and the Teebox, where they can find many nightlife lovers who can date, that is some of the ways they do to realize their lust, usually the offender goes to those places on Friday night commonly known as ladies night and Sunday evenings or even on nights and it depends on how often the level of lust rises for each actor.

Like the one explained by Edwin H. Sutherland in his analysis, Sutherland revealed in his theoretical points that evil behavior is learned, evil behavior is learned in interaction with others from communication, the basis of evil behavior occurs in intimate personal groups, when evil behavior is learned includes the techniques of committing difficult or simple crimes and the specific direction of motives, encouragement, rationalization, and attitudes, the specific direction of motives and encouragement learned from the definition of a rule of law that is beneficial or unprofitable, a person becomes delinquent due to an understanding of outcomes that derive from the violation of the law exceed the unfavorable definition of breaking the law, different associations may vary in frequency, duration, priority and intensity, the process of learning evil behavior through communion with patterns of crime and anti-crime covers all complicated mechanisms as in every other learning.

Then after the participants activity triggers the emergence of activities to go to the night world to entertain themselves and find places that provide access to women, women fellow connoisseurs of the night to satisfy their passions and spend the night together, after that the consequences occur in the actors' social environment such as to fellow actors who are more dominant actors spend a lot of time with new friends who get perpetrators to fellow lovers of the night world.

Social media theoretically has a function as an information channel, an educational channel and entertainment channel, but, in reality mass media enables other effectiveness beyond its primary functions. The effects of social media not only affects a person's attitude but can also influence behavior, and even at a more distant level the effects of social media can affect sociocultural systems of society.

There are several impacts caused by phone sex for the users and their social environment. One of the consequences here is to isolate oneself from previous peers, where as long as the perpetrators enjoy the night world and get a lot of new acquaintances that make it easier for the perpetrators to be more free while enjoying the night world and also actors get networks of friends while enjoying the night world that makes many actors know all about the night world such as entertainment venues that provide services by providing naughty girls who enjoy the night world such as karaoke venues, massage plus-plus, night clubs, even the users also know a lot about where networks are safe to obtain illegal drugs as other satisfactions.

Virtual life will always be contrary to the real life of society. The virtual world is made by some people to escape from real life that is not as expected. The reality of life is the existence of various rules that govern human life in order to be able to relate to other human beings to create peace and harmony. When the virtual mindset is carried into real life, it will create new problems with the surrounding community.

Some things that often happen to the perpetrators where here due to frequent visits to the night world as well as visiting nightlife places such as karaoke places and also visiting night clubs that are used as a place to entertain themselves and be used as a place to find naughty women lovers of the night world that they use or are used as a place to pour out their passions. As a result of all this, various things that occur with the users, which previously only used as a place for self-satisfaction over time, actually made opium perpetrators and to find networks such as the increasing number of acquaintances in the night world. Who equally understand all the things about the night world, it is what makes it easier for the users so that they more enjoy and opium the things they are experiencing.

In addition to the emergence of the effects of changes that occur for phone sex actors in their social environment on their closest friends, new connections emerge such as the emergence of new networks accessed by the gents while roaming the night world, such as the many acquaintances that lead to things that negative as it makes it easier to get many acquaintances of naughty women who are fellow lovers of the night world, know a lot about a safe place that can be used as a place to satisfy themselves like a temat that is used as a lust, even knowing how to get prohibited items such as drugs, marijuana and other illegal drugs.

This means that there is a connection with the Association's Differential Theory, opposing that there is no evil behavior derived from both parents, patterns of evil behavior are not inherited but are learned through an intimate relationship, which means that in dealing with phone sex actors limits themselves to contact with others. The perpetrator will tend to connect with people who can satisfy their sexual desires, so the phone sex actors appear to be isolating themselves from people who cannot deliver it in achieving that goal. While other relationships will lead to achieving goals in satisfying sexual needs, one of them is by having a network of friends made up of fellow lovers of the night world. The limiting relationship is in accordance with the size determined to achieve that goal which Edwin H. Sutherland called in his theory namely the Differential Association Theory.

IV. CONCLUSION

Phone sex behavior is certainly triggered by technological developments and changes especially in communication tools. Adequate communication tools give rise to phone sex behavior, so that it has become a habit for users, not least for students. This habit certainly has consequences in the behavior of students who are phone sex practitioners. The research findings regarding phone sex consequences in phone sex used student behavior in Padang City are as follows:

First, it triggers the activities of actors in the night world. Student phone sex habits have consequences for the user. One of them is the growing activity of actors in the night world. This is certainly caused by the lack of satisfaction experienced by the users in relying only on phone sex to meet their sexual needs. So after engaging phone sex activities students also look for other activities to fulfill sexual desires, namely the night world. The activities in the night world are karaoke and clubbing.

Second, there are consequences for the social environment. The habits of students in conducting phone sex also have consequences on the social environment of the users. The consequences include: (1) isolating themselves from previously close friends, and (2) having a network of friends who are fellow lovers of the natural world.
