Therefore this problem is: "how is the development of urban village government in Indonesia ?.

III. DISCUSSION

In essence, the basic function of the government is the service, both to provide government services, development services and community services, as stated by Sri Maulidiah (2014; 3)[1], that; "In essence the government is held to meet the basic needs of the community, namely the need for security, basically the country serves as night watchman, where most of the community keep most other people at night, so that the community fulfilled the need for security, order and peace. The basic function of government is "service", good government service, development, and social service and also empowerment.

Furthermore, the Government according to Sumaryadi (2010; 18)[2], that;

- b. The power that governs a political society (political will)

- c. Apparatus is a functioning government agency to exercise power.
- d. The power to enact legislation to handle disputes and administrative decisions with a monopoly over legitimate power.

Understanding the Government in the view of Ndraha (1997: 6-7)[3], namely;

"The government of social phenomena, occurs in relationships among community members, individuals with individuals, groups with groups, between individuals and groups. In English, the Government is called government (Latin Gubernare, Greek kybernan, meaning to steer, drive or control), so that the government's symbol is shaped steering ship".

Furthermore, according to Ryaas Rasyd in Giroth (2004: 65) is;

"What the government, then the government interpreted as a fair process based on law to every citizen, providing services for the progress of the nation together. Furthermore, the main task of the government can be summarized into three main essentials, namely;

- a. Service
- b. Empowerment
- c. Development
