The construction of the college representative conference system is of great significance, which plays an important role in the work of the college trade union and at the same time it can also affect the achievements of the campus culture construction. The construction of the congress system reflects the democracy and fully expresses the opinions and suggestions of the vast number of faculty members. Colleges and universities should fully understand the importance of strengthening the system of congress and strengthen the leading role of the faculty. In order to further improve the system of teaching representative assemblies, customer service formalism is required. In a considerable part of the schools, the system of teaching representative assemblies is a mere formality and does not really give play to its democratic significance. Trade unions also need to be well-acquainted and clearly accountable. At the same time, as a system of democracy, the system of the teaching representative assembly is also indispensable in safeguarding the policy provisions. The Provisional Regulations of the Faculty and Staff Representative Congress promulgated by the Ministry of Education and the China Education Union have played an important role in the establishment and development of the education representative assembly. the trend of the times and ensure the timeliness of management. Trade unions do not have the authority of party and government organs. Only by sending documents and notifying is not doing a good job. Unions need love and down-to-earth work style to attract staff and workers. We should adhere to the people-oriented principle, firmly root ourselves in the idea of serving the masses of teachers and workers and of serving the masses of teachers and staff wholeheartedly, and regard the faculty members' satisfaction or disapproval or approval as the standard and basis for testing the effectiveness of their work. We must persist in the work line of mass work that goes from the masses to the masses and often goes deep into the grassroots level to deepen the actual work. We should do a better job among the teaching staff and workers, effectively solve practical difficulties and specific problems, and solve problems for staff and workers. Under the new situation, the leading ranks of trade unions in colleges and universities should seriously consider how to safeguard the rights of faculty members to trade unions, how to safeguard the economic interests of teachers and staff and the political rights of being masters of their own affairs, and how to adapt themselves to the spiritual and cultural life of increasing faculty and staff demand. Trade unions in colleges and universities should achieve new breakthroughs in trade union work with new ideas, new standards and new requirements. To continuously promote the concept of innovation, institutional innovation, theoretical innovation, activities, innovative ways to achieve a bright spot, a characteristic, a first-class goal.
