

indirect speech, 3 places is direct speech. From the interview objects, they are not only the President of the United States but also government official. They are not neutral third party, but they are on behalf of the interests of the United States. Therefore, we can see the position of the author. It is difficult to make sure that who said that, which is effective to avoid the reporter for the responsibility. It can make readers not realize the reporter is imposing will on them, so it's easier to approach them.

Conclusion

This paper mainly discussed the criticism of discourse analysis and its model word reading comprehension foreign literary works, especially the application of media discourse. Through the case analysis, we can find the levels of cultivating students' ability in discourse analysis can make students realize the positive social functions of the language. Language not only reflect the world but also can control and change society. In foreign language teaching, especially in the reading teaching, we should advocate the criticism of discourse analysis.

Acknowledgement

This article is one of achievements of Study on the Reticence in English Teaching Class of Engineering Colleges which is sponsored by the teaching research fund in North China Institute of Science and Technology. Special thanks go to my student Yang Guifang in North China Institute of Science and Technology.

References

- [1]HALLIDAY M A K, H ASAN R. Cohesion in English. London: Longman, 1976.
- [2]HATIM B, MASON I. Discourse and the Translator. London: Longman, 1990.
- [3]Koda .JK; Insight into Second Language—Ways to Cross an Language; Cambridge University Press, 2007
- [4]Ding Yangren; Discourse Analysis; Nanjing Normal University Press, 2004
- [5]Liu Jinkai; Strategy in Training College English Reading; South China University of Technology Press
- [6] Wang Aizhi; The implication of Teaching of College English Reading from Contextual Theory